Dekimo Experts is an engineering- and consulting company, specialised in embedded systems development and process improvement for IT- or development organisations.

We operate from Louvain-la-Neuve, Leuven and Gent throughout the whole of the Benelux with customers who are players at the following domains: space & avionics, medical equipment & instruments, automotive, technical SW engineering, consumer products, telecommunications and electronics.

Currently we are looking for an experienced C++ Analyst/Developer

Tasks :

- analyze and review product requirements and product specifications
- develop new software components in C++ or modify existing ones
- conduct peer code reviews
- create and maintain technical documentation
- plan, define and perform unit testing and report about test results

Requirements:

- Master or Bachelor in ICT (or equivalent by working experience),
- minimal 3 years working experience with C++,
- knowledge of object-oriented analysis and design
- experience with using design patterns.
- Experience in a Linux environment,
- Knowledge of networking protocols,
- fluent in English.

We offer :

- a challenging and varied job in a dynamic and pleasant professional environment,
- an attractive salary, supplemented with a range of fringe benefits such as company car, meal vouchers, group and medical insurance...
- a yearly budget for the training that best suits your needs and helps shaping your future.